

Stable Species

List of stable species

Status of birds as recorded in the survey

(An asterisk * indicates a summer migrant species)

Species	At high numbers	At low numbers
Brown Goshawk		Slightly decreasing
Silveryeye	Decreasing since 1999
White-winged Triller *		Slight increase since 1999
Western Gerygone		Stable
Sacred Kingfisher *		Stable, small, steady increase since 1993
Crescent Honeyeater *		Decrease to very low numbers
Rufous Fantail *		Slight decrease since 2001
Red-rumped Parrot	Stable; increasing from 2000
Pied Currawong	Stable
Double-barred Finch		Slight decrease since 2001
Southern Boobook		Stable
Speckled Warbler		Stable at minimal numbers
Yellow-faced Honeyeater *	Stable
Restless Flycatcher		Irregular decline to very low numbers
White-eared Honeyeater		Stable
Tree Martin		Slight decrease
Grey Shrike-thrush		Stable
White-throated Needletail		Stable until 2002, then declining
Rainbow Bee-eater *		Stable
Spotted Pardalote		Stable
Striated Pardalote		Stable
White-throated Treecreeper		Stable
Leaden Flycatcher *		Stable but very irregular
Yellow-rumped Thornbill	Stable, slight decrease since 1999
Buff-rumped Thornbill		Fairly irregular but steady increase
Common Blackbird	Slight increase until 1993, slight decline after
Grey Fantail		Slight increase until 1997, slight decline after
Welcome Swallow		Steady, with some large variation 1991-96
Red-browed Finch		Stable
Rock Dove	Stable
Brown-headed Honeyeater		Stable, but with large variations over time
Mistletoebird		Stable
Tawny Frogmouth		Large variations, slightly increasing
Little Eagle		Stable at very low numbers
Golden Whistler	Stable
Weebill	Stable, with slight rise since 2005
Eastern Spinebill	Stable
Yellow Thornbill		Stable, with great variation over the years
Eastern Rosella	Stable
Olive-backed Oriole		Stable